Nothing could surpass the efforts that the Editor of the Louisville Democrat, socalled, made during the late canvass to earry Kentucky for the Third-party candidates. He worked like a whole team of harnessed tigers. The country almost stood still to look at him. Oh how he boasted! How he shouted! How confidently and olently he foretold victory! How busy he made himself in getting up county meetings and parading daily, as he still does, the names of scores of county committees! How determined he was to im press the public mind with the idea that, e State was wildly ablaze with Thirdpartyism! He sounded the trumpet as remendously as if he had been the Devil's own trumpeter And markthe result. His Third party's aggregate vote in Keutucky was but 6,416 against a Democratic vote of 77.745 and a radical vote of 23.65%. It was less than a twelfth part of the Democratic vote and less than a sixteenth part of the whole ote cast. No combination of persons, urporting to be a party, was ever so ten iu this State before. Even those who had expected least from the Thirdparty organization, those who had thought he most meanly of its numerical strength, ere surprised. They think, by giving universal suffrage to the negro, they will be able to rudiculize the Southern States. With this aim the military bill was passed destroying the States, disfranchising leading public men and enfranchising the negro. They were afraid to take such a bold step in infumy and in violation of all constitutional rights before the elections, last fall, in the Northern States. Had last fall, in the Northern States. Had they done so, they would have been de-posed in all those States where the negro not allowed to vote. They de urity of their motives: that they had eted in the fear of God in all that they had done, and out of an earnest desire for the weifare of the Church, and believing also that their course had been necessitated by their circumstances and that it has been in accordance with the constitu-tion of the Church; and he could not but hope that the opportunity which had been furnished to them of speaking for them-selves would result in much ultimate good, whatever might be the result of the resent case, and that they would succeed t least in securing a kinder judgment from this Assembly and the Church gen erally. To him personally the opportunity of speaking in behalf of the Presbytery and the Synod to which he belonged seen that the Assembly would not even hear them upon the questions at issue. The opportunity of speaking was personally gratifying to him, as, in the providence of God, he had been called upon to bear much responsibility for what had been done, both by the Presbytery and the Synod.

He was well aware that he appeared beore the Assembly at very great disadvanone of the most eminent gentlemen or platform, in a way calculated to prei he course of his discussion, he should feel constrained to notice; and this was all the more remarkable, coming from a gentle man whose seat, which has been given by the committees of this Assembly, heen strongly contested, and with un array of facts going to show that he is not

The people of Kentucky, then, were peculiarly liable to great agitations on political issues, partaking of the form of sectional disputes. They thought the doctrine of the exclusively spiritual nature of the functions of the church absorbutely a peepsity in their circumstances. unely a necessity in their circumstances.

The speaker rend from a paper the action taken by the Synod in this matter, as construed, into a requisition on all the members and office-bearers of the Church living in the numerous States which had seceeded from the United States, and were in a state of war with them, as bound, by one depositor in every three inhalitants, and were in setting spacetion. What dishonor is there in setting your slaves free? Can there be any? But there is dishonor in placing yourself under the control and government of those slaves after they are made free. The surrender of Lee and Johnston was an acknowledgment that slavery was abolished. The Federal armies were here to enforce it. The slaves, too, had become so much demoralized that almost every one was willing to give up the institutional for many pears; unvise, because the first that almost every one was willing to give up the institutional for many pears; unvise, because the first that almost every one was willing to give up the institutional first that almost every one was willing to give up the institutional first that almost every one was willing to give up the institutional first that almost every one was willing to give up the institutional first the control and propositors and the unthority of the Presbyterian Church of the United States, and were in a state of war with them, as bound, by Christian duty and the unthority of the Presbyterian Church of the United States, and were in a state of war with them, as bound, by Christian duty and the unthority of the Presbyterian Church of the United States, on the subject size of slavery. By these deliverances, this Synod was willing and is still willing to abide. Any larther or eithernow. The speaker now explained the political There were two great political parties, each having its candidate in the field for the office of Chief Magistrate, one of them having nominated Mr. Lincoln and the other General McClellan. The differences between these two parties were waged with uncensing bitterness.

He now proceeded to read the action of the Synod, which met a month before the

This was true especially of the powers of the Church courts. Comparing Chapter 8, Form of Government, wish the Scotch book we learn, that by the very terms employed there, the Assembly has original jurisdiction over even the membras of individual. tion over even the members of individual churches. The Assembly represents all constitutionality of the orders of the Assembly. The Assembly has all the powers our friends claim, and also other powers, so says the constitution.

The claim of original invadiction put forth by the last Assembly is right in the nature of the case, and, from the constitu-tion and by comparison, with the Scotch constitution. He said the compilers of our book, in chapter 5, section 2, left ob-scurity because of omission, and read the full statement in the Scotch book to illus-trate it. Not only is there in Kentucky objection to original jurisdiction, but many claim that the penalty is too severe. But have we no precedents in this line? Prentice, Esq., will be snng to a march by Lachner, arranged expressly for this purpose by Prof. Hast. There will also be an openng overture and a grand march to close the proceedings. LOUISVILLE THEATER .- The patrons of his splendid temple and the admirers of Miss Jean Hosmer came ont in large umbers last evening, despite the inauscious weather. A more refined assemlage is not often seen in the theater, even on a benefit night. It was a just and gratifying recognition of Miss Hosmer's orth and genius. The performance, conisting of the "Actress of Padua" and 'Faint Heart, was given with nnusual delity by all of the characters, and ormed one of the pleasantest entertainents of the season.

A matinee will be given this afternoon The faree of Betsy Baker and a vocal and nstrumental concert are the specialties. To-night Miss Hosmer will appear as Lady Macbeth, in Shakspeare's tragedy of Macbeth. .

COAL DISCOVERIES .- Specimens of biuminous coal from Hartford coaleds, which lie along the line of the conemplated railroad from Elizahethtown to Paducah, were exhibited at the Board of Trade rooms yesterday. Good judges pronounced this coal equal to the best ittsburg quality. The opening of the Blizabethtown branch road and the Knoxville road will give us an abundant supply of excellent coal at low rates. For this eason alone the consummation of these projected enterprises should be hastened. WHAT LOUISFILLE HAS DONE-Since the organization of the Southwestern Relief Commission in this city, five or six months ago, it has sent for distribution among the suffering poor of the Sonthabout one hnndred and fifty car-loads of provisions, elothing, etc. And its labors in this hu mane cause are as unflagging as ever.

Woodlawn Trotting Races-Fourth Day.

The afternoon was all that could have been desired to insure a favorable opportunity to all parties wishing to develop the speed of the animals entered. The track was in magnificent order, and the horses entered for the various contests, as they appeared upon the ground, were unexceptionable in point of condition and handling. The horses in the first race came out in good style. The purse was for $200, mile heats, for double teams, with the following entries:

Phil. Judge named T. P. Roach's Belle and mate. W. K. Thomas named Wm. Brown's Plora and w. F. Milton named Roht. Johnson's Bob John In the pools Bob Johnson and mate were the first choice, Flora and mate second, all the pools selling well. First Heat .- In this heat the horses

the half-mile poll. Flora and mate next, and Bob Johnson third. The horses kept their relative positions until coming down the home stretch, when Flora and Johnson commenced making np their gap. All the horses passed the score in running gait, Johnson beating, and the heat was awarded to him.

Third Heat .- The horses scored beautifully; Belle and mate leading to the quarter pole, when Johnson and mate hroke badly, and when near the half-mile pole Flora and mate gained rapidly. When near the third quarter stretch Belle and mate broke again, and Flora and mate then taking the lead held it to the starting point, coming in well under hand three lengths a head of Belle and mate, in 2:413; Belle and mate second; Johnson and mate distanced.

Fourth Heat .- The odds in this heat were decidedly in favor of Flora and mate In fact few wagers were taken, the odds being 25 to 4, with few takers. When time was called they polled at the second attempt, and a go was ordered. > A TRUE HERO. - James P. Barr, of the Pittsburg Daily Post, is immortalizing himself as a friend to suffering humanity. His sonl is magnanimous so far heyond those of his fellow-mortals in general that he towers among them as a prince. In the past few weeks he has been the largest contributor to the Relief Commission of ouisville. On Thursday the Secretary, Mr. Sam. A. Miller, received from Mr. Barr one thousand dollars, which swells his aggregate donations to the sum of seven thousand dollars. The application of this amount to the relief of the starv ng people of the South has doubtless saved many a life and wrought an amount of good not to be estimated. Mr. Barr has worked manfully and unaided in the face of an organized discouragement, which, but for his own benevolent exertions, would forever disgrace the city of l'ittsburg. All honor and glory to such a man. His name should be affectionately cherished as the synonym of all that is pure and noble in the human heart.

He is in town and will "iift the veil and assume all the pressure" n one of his "eloquentest" orations tonight, at the Court-house. He will charge a small admission fee and devote all the money thus obtained to the relief of the conthern poor. Go, one and all, and see nd hear the brightest gem that studs the orilliant coronal of American oratory; the subiime philosopher whose theories alone can harmonize and happify a discordant world; the sagacions statesman whose ken of human affairs would have led us through the green pastures of peace instead of rivers of blood to the consummation of our national desires; the transcendent, effulgent, incomprehensible startling, but always eloquent and truthful "J. N." He honors the wounded living and the gallant dead of both sides, and lifts the veil which enshrouds his truths. He asks no one to assume anything for him, not even his board-bill. He ignores politics entirely, takes truth as his platform, and looks at the late war from both stand points. He will to-night a tale unfold of suffering and starvation in the sunny South that, will make each particular hair sympathize for the sufferers, and

The Republican Congressional Committee has issued an address to-day to the Southern people on the policy of Congress in reference to the restoration of the Union. Both of the restoration acts are given, after which the address follows. It asys that the negroes of the South, by the measures of the Republican party, as expressed in their acts, are elevated to the full and equal rights of citizens of the States to which they belong, and of the country which hereafter will recognize no distinction on account of race or color. The nation is indebted to the negro race for services rendered during the late war. The negro race is indebted to the country controlled in its policy by the Republican party, for the emancipation of the race from slavery, and now, by these acts of Congress, for its elevation to a position of equality. From these reciprocal services arise mutual obligations and duties, upon the basis of universal suffrage.

It press the people of the South to

It arges the people of the South to direct their efforts to the establishment and maintenance of a system of public schools for the education of the children of all classes, and declares that, finally, the public policy should stimulate the laboring people to become land-holders. The owners of large estates should divide The owners of large estates should divide and sub-divide their lands and sell them at reasonable rates to those who need them and can improve them. In the South there is land enough for all, and all who desire it should be permitted to ob-tain homes. This common human right cannot be denied with safety to society. The address further declares that Congress reserves to itself full and unre-stricted right of judgment whenever a State presents itself for admission into the Union. That right will be exercised Union. That right will be exercised fairly and generously even, but yet in the interest of peace and loyally. Certain conditions precedent are laid down in the laws. These must be met; but beyond these conditions, Congress must be satisfied, also, that the people of the proposed States respectively are, and are likely to be, loyal to the Union by decisive and trustworthy majorities. That their rustitutions are framed upon the basis of utions are framed upon the basis of equality, and they will, from year to year, and from age to age, contribute to

Edwin Booth, in getting into a crowded car in Boston, the other evening, trod heavily upon the toes of a citizen, who uttered divers profane ejaculations. Mr. Booth begged his pardon, when the irate man recognized the voice of the great tragedian, and the angry glare of his face changed to a broad grin. "Why it's Booth!" said he. "———, Mr. Booth, you can sland on my foot all the way out, if you like!" Mr. Booth has had many more elaborate compliments paid to his

One of the Connecticut Senators, this year, the richest man, it is said, in that body, is a son of the Emeral Isle, who, not many years ago, owned a small farm in the Nutneg State. He afterward sold out, and went to Pennsylvania, where he bought a farm for $2,500. The owner asked $4,000, but the now houorable Senator thought it was too much and beat him down to $2,500. Soon after that petroleum came into public use, and it was found that this farm contained one of the most valuable oil wells in the State. Today he is said to be worth $2,500,000, and to have an income of $1.000 a day. Bestat is all this he is a Democrat of the straightest kind.

ENGINERING DEPARTMENT, YALE COLLING, NOV. 18, 1886. I have always recommended the Fasher polygrade lead pencis as the only pencis sitted for both ornamental and mathematical drawing; but some aborough trial of the American Polygram Lead Pencis Co., N. Y., I find them superior any pencil in use, even to the Fasher or the oil English Cumberland lead pencil, being a superior peucil for sketching, gramment and mechanical drawing, and all the ordinary uses of a leapencil. hese pencils are very finely graded, and have a rery smooth lead; even the softest pepcils hold point well; they are all that can be desired, eucli. It gives me great plessure to be able to une Americans that they will no longer be of collections to they will no longer be colled to depend upon Germany or any other sign market for pencils.

adv of Petersburg, aged about sixty-one years, died in that city on Wednesday last. She enjoyed at one time a consider-able literary reputation, and was remark-able for her love of the antiquities and able for her love of the antiquities and her devention to the arts. Some weeks since the wife of a respect-able citizen of Troy died, after a briefill-ness, leaving her husband something like $5,000, which she had carefully saved from

A young girl named Alice Christiana Abbott, who is described as being "sixteen years and six months old, rather an innocent, pleasant, and pretty girl," has been arrested in Boston on a charge of poisoning her step-father to death with arsenic. He had objected to her appropriating his money, visiting houses of ill repute, &c. She denies the deed, and maintains a surprising degree of composure.
